HHS Office and Location: Multiple fellowship opportunities are currently available in the Office of Infectious Diseases and HIV/AIDS Policy (OIDP) within the Office of the Assistant Secretary for Health (OASH) at the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS) located in Washington, DC. The opportunity will be remote, until otherwise specified by the participant's assigned mentor.

Research Project: The policy and research fellowship within the Office of Infectious Diseases and HIV/AIDS Policy (OIDP) provides participants with an opportunity to learn about the policy development process from a range of different perspectives and program areas. Other activities will include drafting reports, letters, white papers, and other forms of scientific writing. OIDP supports a range of inter-agency activities in public health, and serves as a foundation for federal and non federal stakeholder collaboration.

Learning Objectives: The participant will have an opportunity to learn about the following program areas, or can identify the specific program area to which they remain full-time, including:

- Antibiotic Resistance
- Blood and Tissue Safety and Availability
- HIV/AIDS
- Sexually Transmitted Infections
- Tick-Borne Diseases
- Vaccines and Immunizations
- Viral Hepatitis

Mentor(s): The mentor for this opportunity is Jomana Musmar (Jomana.musmar@hhs.gov). If you have questions about the nature of the research please contact the mentor(s).
