Application Deadline 8/21/2021 3:00:00 PM Eastern Time Zone

Description Applications will be reviewed on a rolling-basis.

HHS Office and Location: A fellowship opportunity is currently available with Office of Science and Data Policy within the Assistant Secretary for Planning and Evaluation (ASPE) at the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS) located in Washington, DC.

Research Project: ASPE advises the HHS Secretary on policy development, leads special initiatives, coordinates the Department's evaluation, research and demonstration activities, and manages cross-Department planning activities such as strategic planning, legislative planning, and review of regulations.

The selected fellow would be mentored by a team of policy, public health, and economic experts who focus on biomedical science and public health policies, including federal policies and programs related to environmental health and environmental justice. The fellow would conduct policy research and participate in quantitative and qualitative analytic projects to examine policy-relevant issues related to environmental health and environmental justice, including issues related to climate change. The fellow may also be involved in providing analytic support for new environmental health or environmental justice initiatives within HHS. In addition to direct mentorship by the ASPE team, the fellow would have the opportunity to collaborate with a broad set of federal and non-federal stakeholders and would develop skills in policy and program analysis and research, strategic planning, and coordination.
