CDC Office and Location: A research opportunity is currently available with the Emergency Partners Information Connection (EPIC) team within the Division of Emergency Operations in the Center for Preparedness and Response (CPR) at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) located in Atlanta, Georgia.

Research Project: Under the guidance of a mentor and various CDC partners, the participant will have the opportunity to be trained in the development and assessment of CDC emergency communication resources. The participant will also have the opportunity to receive plain language and Crisis and Emergency Risk Communication (CERC) trainings.

Learning Objectives:

- Learn how CDC coordinates emergency-related information sharing and outreach efforts with partner organizations and target audiences using various channels
- Learn how to develop and clear emergency preparedness communications products and activities for partners and subscribers, which may include content for websites, fact sheets, success stories, newsletters, and articles
- Learn how to use the Zoom platform for webinars and Web-based meetings
- Learn how to collaborate with subject matter experts and other partners
- Learn the core functions of developing, maintaining and optimizing partnerships before, during and after a public health emergency response.

Mentor(s): The mentor for this opportunity is Lisa Briseno
