Description Applications will be reviewed on a rolling-basis.*

A research opportunity is currently available at the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA), Center for Food Safety and Applied Nutrition (CFSAN), Office of Cosmetics and Colors, located in College Park, Maryland.

The selected participant will serve as a chemist in the field of investigation of the analysis of color additives. The project involves development, validation, and implementing analytical methods designed to identify and quantify impurities in color additives used in foods, drugs, cosmetics, and medical devices. The participant will learn to use analytical instrumentation including high-performance liquid chromatography, ultra-performance liquid chromatography, liquid chromatography-mass spectrometry, ultraviolet-visible spectrophotometry, and applicable computer software. The participant will learn to synthesize and characterize reference materials used for quantifying impurities in color additives. The participant will draft internal and external publications and poster presentations that describe significant accomplishments. The participant's research will be guided by the mentor and senior chemists in the Color Technology Branch.

Anticipated Appointment Start Date: July 11, 2022; start date is flexible

This program, administered by ORAU through its contract with the U.S. Department of Energy to manage the Oak Ridge Institute for Science and Education, was established through an interagency agreement between DOE and FDA. The initial appointment is for one year, but may be renewed upon recommendation of FDA
