CDC Office and Location: A research opportunity is currently available in the Division of Oral Health, within the National Center for Chronic Disease Prevention and Health Promotion (NCCDPHP) at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) in Atlanta, Georgia.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) is one of the major operation components of the Department of Health and Human Services. CDC works to protect America from health, safety and security threats, both foreign and in the U.S. Whether diseases start at home or abroad, are chronic or acute, curable or preventable, human error or deliberate attack, CDC fights disease and supports communities and citizens to do the same.

Research Project: This project will be part of the Policy, Partnerships, and Strategic Communications Team.

Learning Objectives: Hosted by the Division of Oral Health and under the guidance of a mentor, the participant will receive training on:

- Managing systems and technical information to be responsive to external audiences, including the public, professionals, and leaders.
- Researching, gathering, and reframing information for use in briefings, meetings, hearings, and other products.
- Collaborating with staff to analyze programmatic data and develop novel ways of framing this information to highlight program impact, effectiveness, and cost-effectiveness.
- Supporting development and implementation of a policy agenda to promote oral health.
- Analyzing established and proposed federal, state, or local laws and regulations.
