CDC Office and Location: A research opportunity is currently available with the Program Evaluation Team, Program Services Branch in the Division of Cancer Prevention and Control (DCPC) within the National Center for Chronic Disease Prevention and Health Promotion (NCCDPHP) at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) in Atlanta, Georgia.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) is one of the major operation components of the Department of Health and Human Services. CDC works to protect America from health, safety and security threats, both foreign and in the U.S. Whether diseases start at home or abroad, are chronic or acute, curable or preventable, human error or deliberate attack, CDC fights disease and supports communities and citizens to do the same.

Research Project: The Program Evaluation Team leads national evaluations of two important cancer screening programs, the National Breast and Cervical Cancer Early Detection Program (National Breast and Cervical Cancer Early Detection Program | CDC) and the Colorectal Cancer Control Program (Colorectal Cancer Control Program (CRCCP) | CDC). To implement the NBCCEDP, DCPC provides funding to 71 organizations across the country to provide breast and cervical cancer screening to low-income, un- and under-insured women. For the CRCCP, DCPC provides funding to 35 organizations to implement evidence-based strategies in health care settings intended to increase colorectal cancer screening. The Program Evaluation Team conducts extensive, standardized data collections for both the NBCCEDP and CRCCP for program monitoring and evaluation. The Program Evaluation Team ensures data are of high quality and cleaned, then conducts analyses and disseminates data/results via data dashboards,
