Description Background:

The EPA Environmental Research and Business Support Program has an immediate opening for an EPA Human Health Administrative Assistant with the Office of Research and Development at the EPA facility in Chapel Hill. The position is part time up between 10 and 15 hours per week.

The Office of Research and Development at the EPA supports research to improve the scientific basis for decisions on national environmental issues and help EPA achieve its environmental goals. Research is conducted in a broad range of environmental areas by scientists in EPA laboratories and at universities across the country.

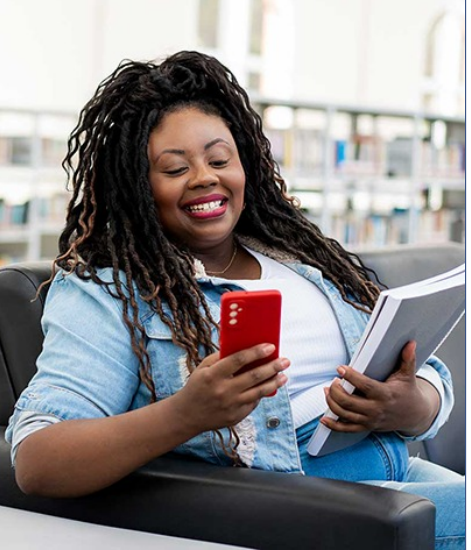

The Environmental Public Health Division (EPHD) within the Office of Research and Development (ORD) at EPA focuses on the adverse public health impacts of environmental exposures. Clear communication of the health risks due to environmental exposures to members of the public is an important cornerstone of the EPA. Researchers in the Epidemiology Branch of EPHD have been exploring environmental public health messages within the EPA and across other government agencies. Specifically, researchers have been focused on the accuracy of the public health message, the consistency of the messaging across agencies, and if any data gaps can be identified as a result of unclear environmental health messages.

The candidate shall assist a researcher in the Epidemiology Branch with management and administrative responsibilities and communication responsibilities required to support and maintain a robust research program.

Management and Administrative responsibilities shall include:

- Conducting literature searches and organizing results from the searches within a well-structured spreadsheet
- Organizing electronic and hardcopy records and files
- Researching and summarizing information relating to environmental quality and health outcomes
- Maintaining records of meetings, correspondence, and action documents, and maintain a system to track projects in
